NUMBERED THE FIRST OF THE PLAYS.

Surprise Party

About thirty of the friends of Glenn Nichols gave him a surprise party at his home Nov. 3.

About eight of the children went first to surprise him. When the door was opened and the different ones entered, Glenn sat and stared. After a while he realized what it all was.

The evening was spent in playing games and dancing.

Delightful refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

The guests departed about 12:30 all having had a good time and many told Glenn they would be back November 8, 1924.

the?"

"Not one."

"Any idea as to who?"

"No."

"Nothing at all?"

"Nothing whatever."

"Are you quite sure?"

"Certainly I am, or I wouldn't have said so."

The man was getting very vexed and wondered why this woman should ask so many questions, she did not look as though she intended to go for a trip.

His wonder was answered when she said, turning to her husband, "Then, I think we'll cross the tracks, Joe."

Della Mast.

On Wednesday evening, Nov. 7 about twenty-four of the young people of Phoenix were entertained at Mr. Young's pleasant home.

The evening was spent in enjoying music played by Mr. Young. Delicious refreshments of soda and sandwiches were served and the party departed early in the evening.

Everyone had a delightful time because Mr. and Mrs. Young have the faculty of making everyone happy.

One of our old school chums Mrs. Olin Cornwell, nee Lelia Nichols who was married last December 31, is the proud mother of a big baby boy born on Friday, November 9, at their home in Oakland. They named the boy Herbert Bayne.

Lelia's old school chums were glad to receive the news and were glad to hear that the baby and mother are getting along so nicely.

Monday was a holiday for all the school as it was Armistice day. Some of the students of Phoenix saw the football game and so attended the Armistice dance.

Freshmen Notes

Ethel Alford was absent Tuesday of this week on account of sickness.

Last week was the Freshman week to entertain for ten minutes in the mornings. Friday was a special day. The period was spent in guessing characters the freshmen put on.

Mrs. Morse, Jeanette Sheets, Dorothea McClain, and Vernon Wright each passed one. The winner was decided by having the successful messengers go to the front board and write the multiplication tables by two.

Making Sure

One day a very nervous, timid-looking woman, accompanied by a stout farmer man, came on the platform of a little railway station at a country place. For a short time she seemed to devote her attention to the timetable but not finding there the satisfaction she sought she stepped up to the station man as he came out of his house.

"Will you please tell me if the three-fifteen has come yet?" she asked very excitedly.

"Yes, about twenty minutes ago," he replied.

"And when will the four-thirty be along, do you know?"

"Oh, not for some time yet, of course."

"Are there any express cars before

Set a tie proved the winner.
The prize was a box of peanuts.
I am afraid there were some shells on the floor around the desks at the back of the room before school was dismissed for recess.

"Look's bad, don't it?"

After this program Mr. Garkin, a representative of the Co. Co. tailed to us then about an hour explaining how the life is.

The two Freshman girls in the play seem to be enjoying the rehearsal immensely.

We wonder what would happen if Miss Over thought she had her lesson.

Meredith could understand the easiest algebra problem.

Violet had time to copy her algebra.

Twila hadn't had a birthday.

Allen would stay home at least one night a week.

Senior Class Notes

This is the Senior week for entertainment of the school.

The Senior class are expecting their plans next week and are very anxious for that day to come.

What would happen if? - The Senior Class should act dignified
Echo not to school on time.

Mildred's record should start without seven or eight or nine or S.S.

Basket Ball

Basket ball practices will start
next week for Phoenix A.I.

There will be a good turn out and still better material. The teams
this year will be small but fast.

November 14 the girls and the boys met and discussed the problem of practicing and the rules of the game.

The girls had a meet and elected Marjorie Oster captain
by a unanimous vote.

The prospects for the girls team this year look's very bright as there are some real fast
good players out for the team.

Scott Lerna

Captain of boys B.M.

NOTICE!!!

Friday evening November 23 is the date for the plays at the Phoenix High School.

The well-known Phoenix male quartet will sing several songs.

The first play, a one-act comedy, WHEN LOVE IS YOUNG, will show young people how to avoid being outwitted by their parents in love affairs.

The second play, THE REVENGE
OF SHARI-HOT-SU, a two-act Japanese near-tragedy, full of lay-able situations, transports us to the land of cherry-blossoms.
The tangle in love-making as carried on in Japan involves the Americans visiting in the "Idvory Isle", but the learned Shari-hot-su in the end wreaks his revenge in truly Oriental fashion.

Medford and Ashland are still at it.

An Ashland man walked into Medford, looking for writers display, picked up a bit of watermelon,
and said "Hello dear!"

"Is this the largest apple you have in Medford?"

"Hey!" bellowed the proprietor,
"Put that rape down!"

Shed a tear for poor dear James
he's dead St. Peter's A.C.
He dropped a stick of dynamite
and they scraped him off the bill.

JUNIOR CLASS NOTES

Joe Lupton was absent from school Wednesday morning.

Scott Lerna, a member of the Junior class, is the boy's basket ball captain.

Football will attend the football game last Monday.

at last.

At the Grand Hotel. The three of us have finally settled over their heads. We are waiting for the evening old looks here. I feel that I am not on account of sickness.
The program in which the seventh and eighth grade entertainers are to perform Friday at the Grand Hotel. It was much enjoyed by all.
I must have a backache or three days of it. I am of a fall which injured his hip.

Walter: "In this case it is something about the 'old' old
that is a threshold?"

Mr. Tyrrell: "No, I don't you know what a 'threshold' is?"

Walter: "No."

Mr. Tyrrell: "I know."

Mr. Tyrrell: "Well, tell us,
Ow."

Mr. Tyrrell: "It's a thing of a threshold something."

"Hacienda"

I had just arrived at the little Spanish town of More de Pender.
With my trip in hand I got off the train and inquired of the station agent the way to the hotel. I talked in Spanish for I was very fluent in that tongue. He told me and I set out for it. I had come to Spain to see about buying an old Mexican estate for a foreign residence.

About three blocks from the town
I noticed a very large mansion which in its former glory must have been one of the show places of the town. But now it stood in a very run down condition.

Suddenly I heard a weird and bloodcurdling cry. I hurried on as it seemed very strange. I noticed a small group of men and lost its prestige. I felt
of them in some way.

Finally I reached the hotel and after a short stay I went down to the lobby and sat down by the stove. You must remember this was a very small hotel in a very small town. There were a number of people around the stove and so I asked one of them about the old mansion.

The landlord began to tell me
the story of the mansion, settled down
in the story that was old
but very interesting.

"The old mansion lost all their money during the war," said the landlord and I continued myself
beginning a new story right so far.

"One of the girls who was Died and so on. But I know
the story of the mansion, settled down
in the story that was old
but very interesting.

I again picked myself on the bed
and said, "I had to tell you about the old mansion, settled down
in the story that was old
but very interesting."
